CITY HOST TO JEWISH PUBLISHERS

Take Leading Part in Convention

2-Day Meet Opens At Lincoln

The eyes of the U. S. Jewish community turned towards Indianapolis this week as Anglo-Jewish publishers from all parts of the U. S. converged on the city for the first meeting of the 100-year-old Anglo-Jewish press in its history.

Almost every major Anglo-Jewish publication in the United States will be represented. Latest papers indicating that they would participate are The Southwestern Jewish Press of San Diego, Calif.; The Examiner of Brooklyn, N. Y.; the Iowa Jewish News of Des Moines, Ia.; and The Kansas City Jewish Chronicle of Kansas City, Mo.

News Agencies Represented

All the Jewish newsgathering agencies will be represented. I. J. Teller, editor of the Independent Jewish Press Service of New York, will attend as will Boris Smolar, news editor of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency. Mr. Smolar, who has spent more than 20 years in Europe as correspondent for leading U. S. papers, including the New York Herald-Tribune, will deliver the principal address at the luncheon Sunday, which will be held at the Columbia Club. The community is invited to the luncheon, or may come later to hear Mr. Smolar's talk. Reservations for the luncheon should be made with The Indianapolis Jewish Federation at Lincoln 6538. The publishers will be guests of the Federation for the luncheon, and Ernst Cohn, Federation president, will preside.

The sessions, all of which will be at the Lincoln Hotel, will open at 2 p. m. Saturday with an Oneg Shabbat, at which papers will be given by Phil Slomovitz of The Jewish News of Detroit; Joseph G. Brin, The Jewish Advocate of Boston, and Robert E. Segal of Cincinnati, a member of the executive committee of the new National Public Relations Advisory Council.

Business Sessions Start
Saturday night's opening business session will be devoted to advertising and circulation with Stephen Schiffer of the Southern Israelite of Atlanta as chairman. Sunday morning committee reports and election of officers will take place and the final session, following the luncheon will discuss editorial problems, with Mr. Slomovitz as chairman.

All the presidents of the city's Jewish women's organizations will be hosts at a reception for the publishers Saturday night at the Lincoln Hotel. The committee arranging the reception and also the entertainment for the wives of the delegates is headed by Mrs. Sholem Ettinger, and is composed of Mrs. J. A. Goodman, Dorothy Schlesinger, Mrs. M. D. Barnett, Mrs. Sara Messing Stern, and Jane Calvelage.

Ford Calls Trial Move Malicious

PM Service

By JAMES A. WECHSLER

WASHINGTON, April 25. — Henry Ford has condemned attempts by defense counsel in the sedition trial to use him as a cloak of respectability for the 30 men and women accused of participating in a world-wide Nazi conspiracy against democracy.

In a rare, sharply worded public statement the auto magnate, speaking through his representatives here, assailed a motion filed by James J. Laughlin, attorney for Edward James Symthe, to subpoena him in the current trial in an apparent effort to show that anti-Semitism is practiced by men in high as well as low places.

Ford declared that Laughlin's action was "a malicious attempt" by persons accused of disloyalty "to obscure their alleged misdeeds."

The Ford statement was one of the most direct rebuffs Laughlin has suffered in his desperate effort to convert the trial into an anti-Semitic, anti-Administration crusade and to shift the spotlight from the issues raised in the Government indictment.

Wants Lindbergh, Too

Laughlin declared in his motion that both Ford and Charles A. Lindbergh, whose appearance he also demanded at the trial, have issued even more sweeping attacks on the Jews than those attributed to the defendants. Presumably he wanted them in court to prove that the assembled pro-fascists were just mild-mannered, mellow citizens echoing the safe-and-sane views of the auto manufacturer and the aviator.

While no court ruling has been issued on Laughlin's motion, U. S. prosecutors were reported regarding it as a "complete breach of faith" because of a prior agreement that all proposals for subpoenaing of witnesses would be settled in a joint conference after the Government begins to present its case.

However, Laughlin's effort to haul Ford and Lindbergh into court was viewed as only the latest in a long series of delaying actions which he has staged to block the actual start of the trial and to discredit the prosecution before the evidence is submitted.

Monday night he asked President Roosevelt to halt the trial before it creates "a wave of hostility and bias toward the Jewish race." Otherwise, Laughlin contended, in a letter, "we will see class arrayed against class and race against race." He thought the trial would last until November 8, then be discontinued "due to the fact that the people of the United States will vote a change in government on November 7."

Laughlin, a leading figure in the attempts of some defense attorneys to picture the trial as a "Jewish-Communist" conspiracy,

COME BACK IN 9 YEARS

Special

MINNEAPOLIS — Turned down for enlistment in the U. S. Marines, William Swardlick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Swardlick, and Michael Goldman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Goldman, were disconsolate this week.

The boys were under age, but had hoped to get into the Marines as "mascot," they grudgingly confided to Dr. Joseph Diamond, educational director of the Talmud Torah here, who inquired of young Swardlick about the official looking envelope he was carrying. Both boys have uncles in the Marines.

The boys are 9 years old. The letter, from Capt. G. H. Pugh, of the Procurement Division of the Marines, lauded the boys. It read in part: "The patriotic motive which prompted your letter is appreciated and it is hoped that when you reach the required age for enlistment in the Marine Corps you will avail yourself of the opportunity of becoming a real Marine."

Soldiers Guilty; Ask Britain to Protest

LONDON (J. T. A.)—The British government was urged this week to intervene to secure a review of the sentences of one to three years imprisonment meted out over the week-end by a Polish court martial to about 30 Jewish soldiers who were charged with "deserting" from the Polish army, because of anti-Semitism there and seeking to transfer to the British forces.

A resolution adopted by the Board of Deputies of British Jews, which represents the bulk of English Jewry, expressed "deep concern" regarding the conditions in the Polish army which culminated in the court martial proceedings and urged the British government to consult with the Polish authorities so that "the findings of the court martial will be reviewed in light of the principles of the present struggle."

To Show Yiddish Talkie Sunday at Kirshbaum

The famous Yiddish talkie, "The Cantor's Son," starring Moishe Oysher, noted Jewish actor, will be presented in two continuous performances from 7 to 11 p. m. this Sunday at Kirshbaum Center. It was announced by the Knesses Israel Men's Club, sponsoring organization. The movie is a full length and runs for 90 minutes. Admission is 60 cents for adults, tax included, and 30 cents for children 14 and under.

FRENCH BALK AT TREATMENT JEWS; 17-MONTH-OLD INFANT SEIZED

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON — The Germans have arrested all the Jews in the town of Chalons, among whom was a 17-month-old infant, and placed them in the local police station pending their being sent to concentration camps. When rumors spread throughout the town that the Germans were refusing to feed the infant, an angry crowd gathered around the police station and demanded that they be given custody of the baby. Even the mayor of Chalons intervened, but he was told by the Nazis not to interfere.

Two-Year Illness Fatal To Ft. Wayne Man, 75

Special

FT. WAYNE—Funeral rites for Sol J. Kann, 75, owner and operator of the Economy Department Store, who died Friday, April 21, at the Methodist Hospital, were conducted Sunday, April 23, at the Scheumann Funeral Home with Rabbi Frederic A. Doppelt officiating.

Burial was in the family plot at Ligonier, Ind. Death followed an illness of two years. Mr. Kann was taken to the hospital seven months ago. A native of Ligonier, he had lived in Ft. Wayne 40 years and operated the store here 30 years.

Surviving are a daughter, Beatrice, and four brothers, I. M. Kann, Kendallville; M. F. Kann, Julius and Sig, all of Ft. Wayne. Mr. Kann was a member of Achuth Vesholom Congregation.

King Denies Bias Caused Change of Meeting Place

OTTAWA (J. T. A.)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King has denied in Parliament the report published in Canadian newspapers that anti-Semitism was the reason for the forthcoming UNRRA conference not meeting, as had been scheduled, at the Seignior Club.

The War Refugee Board has appointed Dr. Robert C. Dexter as special representative in Portugal.

ALGIERS — Spectators turned a swimming meet at Toulous into a demonstration against Nazi racial laws in France, a new French underground newspaper, Fraternite, discloses.

Crowds in the stands demonstrated when it was learned that Alfred Nakache, French 100 and 200-meter free-style swimming champion, had been excluded from the meet by Vichy because he was a Jew. The demonstration was so insistent that the event was cancelled.

Boston Pamphlet Probe Marked by Buck Passing

PM Service

BOSTON — William F. Haynes, assistant attorney general, denied knowledge of information exposing the publisher of anti-Semitic literature recently distributed in the Dorchester, Roxbury and Chelsea sections of Boston.

His statement was contradicted by the Rev. David R. Hunter, chairman of the Committee on Propaganda Analysis of the Good Neighbor Assn. of Dorchester. Mattapan and Hyde Park.

Hunter said the information had been turned over to the Department of Public Safety in presence of Haynes more than a week ago, specifically listing the names, addresses and descriptions of men farming out the literature to printers and the men backing the printing and distribution.

RICHARD LIEB, 14-YEAR-OLD QUIZ KID, HAS MANY NORMAL INTERESTS

By Anna Berg

GARY—Gary friends of Richard Lieb were surprised two weeks ago Sunday when his name was announced over the radio as one of the guests to appear on the Quiz Kids show the following Sunday. Neither Richard nor his parents were aware that that announcement was to be made and were not home to hear it.

Richard, a normal young man of 14, a freshman at Horace Mann High School, has interests that are varied but not unusual. He has some interest in music—plays the accordion for his own amusement. The Electron Club occupies some of his time and he is usually found helping set up the amplifying system whenever it is used at school. His radio fans heard him play "Old Folks at Home" on the harmonica as a surprise stunt for the Quiz Kids guest, Larry Adler. "If you want another surprise, Mr. Adler," said Richard, "I learned it in one day." He has an intimate knowledge of guns and firearms through association with his uncle, an honorably discharged soldier. He likes to read biographies of men who build airplanes and likes to study about the mechanical construction of the planes. Yet he would rather draw an airplane model than build one.

Richard is the second Gary boy who has appeared with the Quiz Kids. The first was Harrison Mellman, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Mellman, who was on the program a few years ago.

Richard Lieb survived his first visit, which is considered very good, but did not survive the second visit. His friends hope that before long he will have the opportunity to appear again.

Lodge Plans Cabaret Dance—Lake Lodge B'nai B'rith will be hosts Sunday at a Cabaret Dance at Marquette Park Pavilion. Mickey Isley and his band will furnish the music and the special attraction of the evening will be Dolly Kay, a performer direct from the Chez Paree and Latin Quarter in Chicago. All members of B'nai B'rith and their friends are invited to be present.

In the Service—Cpl. Aaron Levee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex

Levee, writes home that at the Pesach seder which he attended in Italy, he met up with Sgt. Harry Rubin of Gary. "Canadians, Palestinians, and Americans were among those present," he writes.

... Hershell Bornstein, son of Mrs. Ida Bornstein, was notified this week that he had passed the V-12 test and shortly would be assigned to a university for training.

Notes—Mrs. A. Sobel, mother of Mrs. Frank Sparber, left Tuesday for a visit with her son Wilbur and family in Hollywood, Calif.

... Mrs. Sam Janovsky is nursing a broken wrist received in a fall last week. ... S. Sgt. Isadore Krieger is home on furlough for 14 days from Kelly Field, Tex. ...

S. Sgt. Robert Hirschberg is now stationed at Davis Monthon Field. He received his transfer after his recent furlough. ... Dr. and Mrs. Arnold Lieberman left Sunday for a visit to Tucson, Ariz., and San Diego, Calif.

Their little daughter, Maxine, who is a rheumatic fever patient at La Rabida Sanatorium in Chicago was featured in a Chicago newspaper last week showing the care given to these small patients at the sanatorium. ... Lt. Alvin Kahan received a transfer to Granite City, Ill., after a short furlough home with his mother, Mrs. Etta Kahan, and other members of his family. He was accompanied by his wife.

Services Held Monday For Trolley Victim

Funeral services were held Monday for Mrs. Anna Caplin, 65, 1114 S. Illinois St., who was killed almost instantly when she was struck by a trackless trolley last Saturday. The services were at the Aaron Ruben Funeral Home with Rabbi David S. Shapiro officiating. She is survived by her husband, Louis Caplin, and three children, David Savell, New York City; Philip Savell, serving overseas, and Mrs. Ben Rader of Indianapolis. Interment was in Knesses Israel Cemetery.

Second Stag Set By B'nai B'rith

A second stag party for B'nai B'rith members and friends will be held at Broadmoor Country Club beginning with a dinner at 6 p. m. Tuesday. Reservations for the dinner, which is optional, must be made in advance by calling Broadmoor or the B'nai B'rith office.

United Hebrew Auxiliary To Meet Wednesday

The Ladies Auxiliary of the United Hebrew Congregation will meet at 2 p. m. Wednesday, in the vestry rooms of the Synagogue. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Morris Stein and Mrs. A. Cohen.

Hadassah Sewing Time Changed

Hadassah Sewing Group No. 1 will meet in the future each Monday from 9 a. m. to 1:45 p. m., at Beth-El-Zedeck, instead of Wednesdays as formerly. All those who wish to sew for Hadassah or want to learn to sew are welcome, Mrs. Miriam Forman, general chairman of the Hadassah Sewing Group, said.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Letzler and New York. They spent last weekend in Chicago.

SARA'S COLUMN

By SARA MESSING STERN

SGT. BERNARD BLOOM has written from Corsica for two boxes of Matzos! And did the Nier-Frankel household send them pronto!! Sgt. Bloom tells interestingly how six of them received over-night passes to attend Seder at Red Cross Headquarters. A Jewish woman made the Matzoh balls for the soup and they had canned turkey, cranberry sauce and a mighty fine meal. Bernard had sent a snap-shot home and Mrs. Nier had written "you look thin. Drink plenty of milk." Bernard's answer was, "I haven't seen milk since I left the states."

WORD HAS COME from Adele Gross Weil of the death of her aunt, Hattie Frank Cohen. She is the last of the four "Frank girls," so well known here in Indianapolis where they lived throughout their girlhood, Ida Frank, Barbara Frank, Hattie Frank Cohen and Stella Frank Gross. Stella was the beauty of the family. She passed away a year ago. Hattie fractured her hip November 3 and never recovered from the shock.

HAROLD FISHBEIN, a Field Director for the American Red Cross, dare not tell where he is but he writes he is on a tropical island a few miles from the ocean where many Japanese wounded are brought for treatment. "Some Red Cross workers will soon be here—the first young women the boys have seen for two years. I deliver the sermon on alternate Fridays at our Jewish services which I attend regularly. This work would please father, I know. All the boys look forward to my sermons—or seem to—for I have a regular following and a large congregation. We are having a Seder next week. God might be surprised to hear our prayers—deep, sincere ones—from a place no sensible Jew, under ordinary circumstances would care to be. Movies will be made of the Seder and will be used as Jewish Welfare Board propaganda. I saw Jerry Schlesinger some time ago. Sam and Betty Mantel's son, Samuel, Jr., called me. He is on a nearby island and will be back again soon. I haven't missed one day on the job since November 3rd, when I arrived here."

ELAINE JAFFE, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jaffe, attended the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregational Seder at Broadmoor April 8 with her parents. When Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt arrived she said excitedly to her parents, "I know that man! He goes to my Sunday School!"

CPL. ALBERT R. SCHWARZ, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sol Schwarz of Indianapolis, who is stationed with the Ninth Air Force in England as U. S. A. Ninth Air Force correspondent, has completed a number of short stories illustrated with pictures he has taken which will be published shortly. One "Cameras Over France," will be in the "Yank" magazine. Cpl. Schwarz has been overseas for seven months.

CONGRATULATIONS to Mrs. Hannah Frankfort who on April 27, celebrated her seventy-second birthday. Mrs. Frankfort has done much constructive work through the years. Her chief interest has been the Jewish Sheltering House—now the Joseph and Anna Borinstein Home for the Aged—of which she is the Honorary President. She served the Sheltering House six years, as treasurer and sixteen years as president. She is a charter member of the Sisterhood of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation and a member of the congregation. One grand thing is her sense of responsibility. Except for severe illness, I doubt whether she has missed a single board or regular meeting of the Old Home.

CONGRATULATIONS to Mildred Solomon Oberdorfer, (Mrs. Aubrey) of Gary, Ind., daughter of George Solomon, former executive secretary of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, and of the late Rose Kiser Solomon! Mildred has been active for many years in the Woman's Volunteer Service in addition to her interest in Jewish work in Temple Israel. She has just been elected president of the Gary Young Women's Christian Association.

The Beth-El-Zedeck Sisterhood a luncheon meeting Monday, will hold its last board meeting May 8, for the season at 8:30 o'clock, Monday evening, May 1, at the home of Mrs. David Hollander, A. C., stationed at Patterson Field, 3320 Ruckle St. The regular Dayton, Ohio, was a guest last meeting of the Sisterhood will be weekend of Miss Ann Dubin.

COMMITTEE PUBLICITY AGENT TAKES UP CUDGELS ON EDITORIAL

To the Editor:

As one who has often expressed admiration for the independence of your editorial column and as one who agrees with you that the Anglo-Jewish press deserves greater recognition from the Jewish community at large, may I comment on your editorial, "Revolution in Jewish Life" in your issue of April 7. If I may say so, this wise-cracking smirk does neither you nor your paper any credit. It is based upon a generalization that is neither accurate nor fair; certainly it doesn't represent serious comment deserving of respect and consideration.

Rather than succumbing to the popular sport of taking a pot shot at the American Jewish Committee, you—who believe in freedom of the press—might very well have praised the intellectual freedom of the Committee responsible for the publication in the Contemporary Jewish Record of such an article as that of Professor Hook's.

But there is a more serious basic issue that troubles me in connection with your thinking as manifested in the editorial in question. You are guilty of thinking in terms of labels; you are perfectly willing to dismiss the American Jewish Committee as "economic royalists who have a road block against any progress in the way of betterment of conditions for the common people." Just how you can justify this in view of the fact that members of the Committee's executive committee include persons of all varieties of political thought, including a number of persons closely associated with the admittedly progressive Roosevelt administration, is beyond me.

There are conservatives and liberals—politically—high in the ranks of your Indianapolis Federation. They, and we, are joined together in common cause in such organizations as the Committee and the Federation, the betterment of the situation for Jews locally, nationally and overseas. If you disagree with the decisions of the Committee on any matter of Jewish import, or if you disagree with your local Federation on any decision they may make, you are, of course, free to make such editorial comment as you choose. But I do believe you have erred—and I think you are big enough to admit it—when you snipe at the Committee in such an editorial as "Revolution in American Jewish Life." Such an approach, I'm sure you'll agree, is demagogic; most emphatically it is an added barrier to the unity in Jewish life for which you have so long labored.

I know that it isn't generally good policy for the Publicity Director of a national agency—especially after having only been on the job for a few months—to take issue with an editor on one of his editorials. On the other hand, I think it well that we understand each other because then I will best be able to service you and you will best be able to interpret the complete Jewish scene to your readers.

I personally feel very good that the Committee's policy was broad enough to publish the Hook article in the Contemporary Jewish Record. Whether you agree with it or not, it is the considered statement of a brilliant thinker, and I, for one, believe that the Jewish public is the better for having read it. The Editor of the Record published the article on his own responsibility, as would any editor worthy of his salt; and I, as a publicity man for the Committee and its publications, issued the release on which your editorial is based because I believed it newsworthy.

I'm sure that in the future you'll find many things about the American Jewish Committee to comment upon—favorably and unfavorably—but I'm sure we can agree that each issue should be commented upon wholly on its own merits.

Cordially yours,
HENRY W. LEVY.

Jewish News Appreciated In "Indiana Hinterland"

To the Editor:

I would like to add my voice in praise to the many others for the fine job of news presentation you have given this last year.

Actually, your great little newspaper has eclipsed those older Jewish weeklies that I have read. Keep up your fighting spirit!

My wife and I also appreciate the contact with things Jewish that your Post gives us out here in the hinterlands of Indiana.

Sincerely,
GENE J. GUTTMAN.

Keeping Synagogue Open At All Times Being Tried

To the Editor:

With reference to the article in your "Town Crier" of April 14, on the subject of keeping the Synagogue doors open for those who might want to drop in for a few moments of silent prayer, may I remind you that I happen to be the Rabbi to whom you referred and I am enclosing a copy of the Messenger containing the article that I wrote on this subject.

Thus far the response has not been as enthusiastic as I had anticipated, but I thought that you might be interested in a letter that I received from one of my members, Mrs. Samuel Lefkowitz.

"In the last issue sent me, I noticed your invitation for comments from the readers pertaining to 'open shule.' Therefore, please accept my vote—to the affirmative! It was with a peculiar feeling that I read the article. Had I the courage to speak up when this same idea occurred to me about two years ago, I now could lay claim to its being my 'brainchild.' You see Rabbi, I had thought about this many times, and now I am pleased that it might become a reality before long. Several times in the past, I have felt the need of such spiritual uplift, and should have been most grateful for an 'open door' to commune with my God in His Own House. Congratulations, and lots of success on your new and novel experiment. I like the idea of planting it in our synagogue—"great oaks from little acorns grow."

Perhaps in time, other synagogues will adopt it, too, and thereby afford an added opportunity for worship and meditation for all with troubled souls. And who, in this day and age, is free from worries?

Yours very sincerely,
RABBI MORRIS TELLER.

Demand Continues for Copies Of Passover Issue

To the Editor:

Will you please send me ten (10) copies of your April 7th issue? If this quantity is not available, you may send as many as you can spare.

Will ask that you advise me the amount, so that I can mail you a check to cover.

Thanking you, I am
Very truly yours,

Burnstein Says 4 Others Also Read His Post

To the Editor:

You no doubt have some conception of what it means to us who have been away from home and people we know and love so much, but let me say that with the arrival of each and every copy of The Post, one cannot help but feel an exhilarating feeling. When I finish each and every line and each page, the paper is generally passed on the way to others from home located nearby: Abe Mandell, Ralph Bloom, Jesse Cohen, Ed Rose and quite a few others. My one request is for some mail from my many friends (?).

The Editor's Chair

What with the controversies in our community over kashruth, over the Indianapolis Jewish Federation and as between Zionist and anti-Zionist, a call is going forth I understand from one of the leaders of the community for a parley with all the major opponents to be invited. What the results of this peace conference will be, I don't know, but just for the record, I'll say that of the three points named above, all but one will be ironed out, and I'll leave you to guess which one, in by estimation, will remain to plague the community. But the meeting is a definite step forward and the caller should be commended for his efforts, even if they prove abortive.

Lew Sutin is not in the navy. I have a note from him, that his induction has been postponed. "My present plans are," he writes, "to finish my B'nai B'rith itinerary and visit such of the lodges as I had been unable to, during my administration, in Ohio and Indiana, and to attend the Triennial in New York City and the District convention in Cleveland." Knowing Lew as I do, I am sure he is one of the most disappointed men in the nation at this moment.

Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt's sermon this Friday night sounds as if it might be very interesting. He will talk on "The Jewish Community Comes of Age," and will discuss such topics as "Who are the leaders in the community? What makes the leaders? What makes leadership change? Does the local community reflect the pattern of Jewish life nationally? What can be done to improve the Jewish community."

Gan Eden lodge conducted services at Terre Haute's Temple Israel last Friday night, and after services held a forum program on the subject, "A Jewish University in the United States." Provocative discussions like these not only serve to increase the knowledge of the community, but at the same time perform the other necessity—it brings out the members. Before you vote "no" on the question, remember that some of the finest and best known schools of higher learning in the United States are conducted by minority groups. Notre Dame is one, you know.

Deserves Award for Most Unimaginative Writer

THE award for the most unimaginative writer should go to Frederick C. Painton whose article on Palestine in the current issue of Reader's Digest will disgust even the most rabid Jewish anti-Zionist.

The Jews who with fanatical tenacity produced oversized tomatoes on land a self-respecting crow wouldn't fly over, are dismissed with the phrase they desire to own some land in Palestine, yet some Arab achievements like building a factory or two are held up to the world as examples of potential Arab initiative.

The writer swallows whole the canard that Jews want to drive out the Arabs, yet almost in the next breath tells, again in an offhand way, that a half-million Arabs have come into the land since the Balfour Declaration.

That Jews have contributed large sums towards the development of Palestine, is held out to be a vice, when the real criterion should be whether the 550,000 Jews now living in Palestine, by grace of this generosity, are better off than the Jews in the Nazi hell, or perhaps whether the money sent to the Jews of Europe, a much greater amount than has been spent in Palestine, was a better investment in humanity.

Painton is so sure that the Jews will evacuate Palestine after peace returns to Europe (this in face of his item about the reclamation of land at the south end of the Dead sea) that he uses it as his clincher without troubling even so much as to accord it the fairness of a mooted question.

The Post presumes the Reader's Digest, in order to show its impartiality will next month or shortly thereafter allow an answer to be printed. In this paper's estimation, whoever writes the piece ought to take the same facts and the same quotations used by Painton, but instead of the cold indifference of artificial eyes, allow some sparkle to show that the eyes are really those of a human.

Higher Ups Must Be Uneasy

ALTHOUGH it may seem from the first few weeks of the sedition trial that the attempt by the defendants to use the case as a sounding board for their anti-Semitic propaganda is succeeding, and that the real charge of aiding the Nazis is being sidetracked, the trials should yet have the effect of actually showing the people exactly what is behind the current wave of anti-Semitism.

Not only that, but what with the unpretty picture of the crackpots fighting among themselves, with their lawyers and with the world, they are beginning to make the higher ups in the fascist group in the United States uneasy. Henry Ford's very speedy disavowal of any connection with the defendants proves the point. And now that Coughlin and the others who flirted with anti-Semitism to gain undemocratic ends, are in danger of being brought into the proceedings there must be many enemies of democracy who are spending sleepless night.

1,800 Bad Jews of Paraguay

THE 1,800 bad Jews of Paraguay "constitute a serious danger" the official government newspaper El Paraguayo declares.

There is serious danger in Paraguay and it isn't the Jews. The danger is that a government even in the Western Hemisphere has learned he trick that brought the Nazis to success. The Jewish Telegraphic Agency, quoting observers familiar with the political situation, concludes that since there are so few Jews in all Paraguay, the attack is an attempt to divert public pressure from the administration's anti-democratic actions.

Current Comment

Windsor's Jewry Berated by Rabbi Benjamin Groner in the Community's Bulletin for Failing to Show Up to Hear Dr. Fischel—Windsor's Jews are unpredictable—that's the only sure thing about them! When it comes to giving money, we are very generous, as proven by the success of every important drive. But culturally and spiritually we have little to be proud of, if what happened at the meeting for Dr. Fischel is any criterion.

Dr. Walter Fischel is a great man among Jews. Men of his type are our finest answer to the demagogues who would tear us down and destroy us. He represents the finest cultural achievement in the whole Jewish World—our own Hebrew University in Palestine. He came to Windsor, not for money—this was made very clear—but to tell us what was going on in the Middle East—how the Hebrew University was helping the War Effort. He was welcomed by the Windsor Daily Star, who gave us very nice publicity. His trip through Canada has done Jews a great amount of good.

The Jewish Community had ample notice of his coming, the time and place to hear him, through the mail. It was made very clear that there would be no appeal for funds. Yet only a handful—a scant 50 or 60 out of our Jewish population of 2,500 turned out to hear him. Where were YOU?

Those who heard him had a very enjoyable evening—felt proud of our accomplishments in Palestine—met a great man in person. Those who missed him missed a real treat, and did themselves no honor. And things like this happen all too often among us!

What has happened to our Jews of Windsor? Are we so cross and blasé that only a barrage of mail, telephone calls, and a tremendous waste of time of busy men will get us out in fair numbers to a meeting as important as this? Where's the spirit of "noblesse oblige" that, if felt by all of us, would have packed the synagogue with a thousand people to hear Dr. Fischel?

Take heed, Jews of Windsor! Many of us have nice homes, going businesses, leisure time to play "gin rummy" and what have you. No need to worry ourselves about Jewish matters, we think! The fight against anti-Semitism, the building up of Palestine, interest and help our own mean nothing to us. Paradise, yes—but a fool's paradise! We're "sitting on top of the world—but it's a world in flames! In union there is strength—if there's any salvation for Jews, it will only come through banding together, working together for our common welfare. Neglecting these things to pursue the will o' the wisp of material comforts endangers our security. What happened to Jews elsewhere in the world CAN happen here too—TO YOU!

What can you do about it. A great deal! Drop the habit of "letting George do it" when it comes to your share of community work—get into the work yourself! Be willing to give up an evening or two a week to Jewish affairs—there will still be time to play gin-rummy! When we have a speaker like this—when anything important is going on in Windsor Jewish Community—make it a point to be there. Come yourself—bring your friends—it's your problem, your community, as much as it is anyone else's, isn't it? Realize your obligation as a Jew and respond to it—it's as simple as that!

New Guinea Catholic Chaplain Thanks Jewish Donor Who Gave a Pint of Blood in His Honor

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—The New York Chapter of American Red Cross has made public a letter Chaplain Frederick P. Gehring, Catholic USNR, sent from New Guinea recently upon being informed that one Irving Siegal, of New York City, had donated a pint of blood in his honor.

Chaplain Gehring's letter is eloquent testimony that the brotherhood of man is not one of those institutions completely out for the duration.

"I do not know Mr. Siegal," he wrote. "I don't believe he knows me. In fact, I do not think that he is of my faith. And yet he, undoubtedly a fine, patriotic Jewish gentleman, gave a pint of his blood in honor of a Catholic priest. God bless him for it.

"I wish to inform Mr. Siegal how grateful I am. I wish you would tell him and the thousands of other American citizens who have so generously given of their blood, what their sacrifice means to our boys; that by donating a pint of their blood, they enable our lads to live and fight another day, and carry this battle on to victory.

"It was my privilege to be with our heroic marines through the early days when Guadalcanal threatened to become another Bataan. I've seen many men die. Brave, noble lads who gave their lives that you and I might live. I have held in my arms battered bodies of young marines whose American blood was gurgling from their lips or oozing through their tattered uniforms. As I listened to their prayers—Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, and every other denomination—I doubted that they could live. But somehow, after our Medical Corps men carried them back to our field hospital tents, they survived, thanks to that miraculous transfusion of blood plasma.

"Thousands of our men are dying on the battlefields of the world. But hundreds of thousands will not die, and many of them will owe their lives to folks like Irving Siegal who unstintingly give not only their dollars but their blood."

..NEW YORK DATELINE..

Deadline for Unity—September 1

On or about September 1st, 1944, the greatest experiment in American Jewish communal life will face a deadline. The American Jewish Conference will either reconvene and take another chance on its lease of life, or else close shop for the duration.

Which will it be? And what is the story behind the Conference's silences and hesitations for the past year?

There seems no move at the moment to reassemble the 500 men and women delegates who came to New York City last summer, democratically elected, and with the single, steadfast purpose of ending the farce of Jewish disunity at a time when unity seems not only imperative for their own sakes, but for the sake of those who had become silenced.

The greatest event in American Jewish history for the past two decades, and the first attempt to introduce democratic processes in communal life had brought to New York last year men and women with vigor and energy and determination. They would speak at last for American Jewry. There would be a single voice. And a loud clear voice. What has happened since then?

SOMETHING FAILED TO CLICK

The truth is amazing. The Conference was put in cold storage the day after the delegates went back to their homes. Just like that. Unity and strength and action went into the refrigerator with it.

It has been decided that the Conference would reconvene within a year. In the meantime an Interim Committee was chosen. Sub-committees were established. The process was the usual post-convention process. But the expected moves never came. There was nothing following the immediate slack and lethargy.

Something had not clicked. Somewhere, somehow the public could not find the core of vitality which might have kept its interest. Imagination, having been tempted, and disappointed, hibernated. The center of united action seemed just another organization, caught up in its own machinery, unable to free itself from the intricate techniques of inter-organizational diplomacy and strife.

CONFERENCE BECOMES "ORPHAN IN STORM"

The supreme body of Zionism? Hardly that. The Conference became, as one of its leaders candidly confessed to me, an orphan of the storm. Its "parents," Mr. Monsky, Dr. Wise and Rabbi Goldstein, had gone home to their own families. The B'nai B'rith, The Zionist Organization of America. The American Jewish Congress. There were committees and meetings and more meetings. Mr. Monsky lives in Omaha. The communication was long and tiresome. Wires, phone conversations and lengthy letters. Dr. Goldstein was obligated at a hundred vital bodies. Dr. Wise had taken upon his shoulders the onus of rescue in Europe and Commonwealth in Palestine.

The Conference delivered with pomp and circumstance seemed abandoned.

It tried to struggle on for a little while itself.

Bereft of its sponsors, the Conference might have discovered, and with considerably more ease than generally allowed, directors from among its delegates. For there had been a time throughout June and July of last year when one heard of a new leadership. Young people. Men and women with vision and energy and time.

But the plague had caught at the vitals of the Conference.

RECORD FOR YEAR A SORRY ONE

Its record for a year is a sorry one. There were resignations and counter resignations. There were long memorandums debunking various fronts. There were a few releases full of promises and half suggestions.

But all of this came from New York. Where were the delegates? Where were the 500 who had come to the Conference as its chosen delegates? Had they disappeared? Surely, they might have been able to assert themselves? For if the Conference was a National Jewish Assembly, a Parliament, as one heard in the halls of the Waldorf Astoria during the week of August 29-Sept. 1, 1943, then, surely these delegates were its Congressmen?

But they were not utilized. They were given neither the initiative nor the directives necessary to convert the Conference into a living organism. Headquarters had failed them. And Headquarters was too busy.

OFFICES OF CONFERENCE A SAD GESTURE

I went down to the offices in 521 Fifth Avenue. I remembered the offices as they looked last year. Small, bustling, and full of a certain enthusiasm, rare in Jewish life. Now, the offices are larger. Almost empty. There are a few typists. Secretaries. No one is in charge. No one seemed to know anything. The Conference offices are only a gesture today. A final, rather sad gesture, because the idea that furnished them had been a great one, and because it might have succeeded.

That is the story. And the future? There are two alternatives facing the Conference today.

Either the delegates will break the death grip of vested interests, seize power, declare themselves the Conference, and go to work. Reconvene. Recall the people who had come to New York last summer. Sit down and figure out what the Conference can do, and how it must be done. And above all, to decide that this Conference can produce a new leadership in American Jewish life. Release accepted leaders to the tasks that call them away from the newer, the younger project.

Or else, liquidate the Conference. True, it will be accepting failure. But better that than the present deadlock. The Conference will pull down the shutters, dust off the chairs and go home.

It will be a pity, for the idea and the beginning had promise. Because there was hope and faith implicit in the way it came to life.

But there need be no fear that the publicity attendant upon liquidation of the Conference will be harmful. After all, how many people will know the difference?

INTERIM COMMITTEE STRUGGLES WITH SITUATION

Last week, in New York, the Interim Committee met. These were the things they discussed. Frankly and openly. Nothing was released to the public. There were no items of special interest. The press reported nothing of the meeting. But perhaps, perhaps, the meeting was a clearing of the air, and a discussion of the future. And perhaps, when September comes, unity will have met its deadline.

HOLLYWOOD — German-Jap network-blasts, short-waved to G. I. Joe, prove no detriment to his morale...in fact, are rather good entertainment. First, they use all the best-liked American swing-band music to attract U. S. soldier listeners. Secondly, the propaganda bleats are always good for a laugh. Jap programs invariably start with the theme song, "It's a Sin to Tell a Lie"...then proceed with whoppers that would shame even Baron Munchhausen. Their math calculations are farcial...they always shoot down more planes than the U. S. forces sent up. Funny line was the Nazi explanation of how "they wanted to lose all that territory in Russia!" Another newscast described the floods in the midwest United States as "so bad that all the coffee was destroyed at Coffeyville, Kansas!"

Syrian Arabs Visit Palestine Colony

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JERUSALEM—A delegation of Syrian students, accompanied by their teachers, visited the Jewish settlements of Dan this week to observe the agricultural techniques of the Jewish colonists. In an informal address, one of the Arab teachers said that the Syrians had heard of the accomplishments in the Jewish colonies and felt that there was much the Arabs could learn from them. Arabs and Jews, he stated, can live together peacefully and cooperate in their country's developments as do people of different races in Switzerland and America.

WASHINGTON NOTES

What did British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden mean when he recently asked U. S. Ambassador Winant whether the United States would not like to take over the Palestine Mandate?... The question was posed to Ambassador Winant in Eden's office in the presence of a third person.... We hear from Washington that Robert R. Nathan, former head of the planning division of the War Production Board, intends to leave for Palestine early in May.... He is to complete an economic survey for the American-Palestine Institute which was started several months ago for the purpose of getting a scientific estimate of the absorptive capacity of Palestine.... The project, on which a staff of ten people is now working, is expected to be finished by the end of September.... High Washington officials are mum concerning the possibility that landowners in Palestine, under the provisions of the Palestine Mandate, may not be permitted by Britain to lease or sell land to the United States Government which needs it for the oil pipe-line from Saudi-Arabia to the Haifa terminal....

COMMUNITY NOTES

The first conference of editors and publishers of Anglo-Jewish weeklies in America, which is taking place this weekend in Indianapolis, is an interesting development in American Jewish life.... Much criticism is leveled against the Anglo-Jewish press, but not all of it is justified.... The fact remains that the Anglo-Jewish home-town weekly newspapers are beginning to play a more important role in Jewish community life.... And it is not true that they are as unimportant as some quarters are interested in presenting them.... The best repudiation of this allegation are publications like the Boston Jewish advocate, the Pittsburgh Jewish Outlook, the Detroit News, the Indianapolis Jewish Post, the Wisconsin Jewish Chronicle.

NEW YORK HAS NONE

What is true is that New York, where more than a third of the entire Jewish population of America resides, has no worthwhile Jewish weekly in English.... This despite the fact that New York is the center of Jewish life in the United States.... But those who believe that a New York publication can take the place, or fulfill the functions of any of the Anglo-Jewish newspapers published in the provincial cities are mistaken.... These newspapers are becoming more and more of a necessity for the various local Jewish drives and a part of local Jewish communal life.... No metropolitan Anglo-Jewish paper would be able to serve the provincial Jewish communities as well as their local publication.... The London Jewish Chronicle, to which some persons in America point as an example, is no example at all since there are no more than 350,000 Jews in all of England, and especially because Jewish life in England is altogether different from Jewish life in the United States.

INDIANA BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

I'd Rather Be Right

—By Samuel Grafton—

There is one war which ought to be ended, and that is the cold, dry war which has been fought during these last five years between the refugees of this world and the consular officials thereof.

Someone (is it Mr. Varian Fry?) tells the story of the refugee who waited patiently in line, for days, at an American consulate in Europe somewhere, seeking a quota number. When he finally reached the consul's desk (the story goes) he was brusquely told: "Oh, come back in ten years!" According to the tale, the refugee smiled the weary, patient smile of his kind, and said: "Thank you, sir. Morning or afternoon?"

So, you see, the epic war between the consuls and the refugees already has its legends.

One War Which Should Be Ended

But it is time to call that war off. The utter loneliness which the world has inflicted upon the refugee, the compulsion that he, poor stateless he, shall fulfill all legal requirements, has been a refinement of cruelty. Some of us know how much trouble it is to fill out long and complicated legal forms. We have raged about that in home debate. Try to imagine what it is like to have your life, and the lives of your wife and children, depend on your ability to fill out a form, to satisfy all requirements, to have all necessary papers as required by ancient and obscure laws; all under the eye of some uninterested and uncomprehending Turkish consular official, or Spanish or American ditto.

Sometimes, at one step or another in the process, papers have to be sent to a distant city for certification. The official may say: "That will take three weeks."

But it is not easy to wait three weeks with the Gestapo on one's neck. The laws which ordered these affairs during peace, when there was time to wait, have not changed because of the war. The official shrugs his shoulders. And it must seem to the refugee, at the Turkish border, or at the Spanish, or in Lisbon, that the whole world has shrugged its shoulders, too.

Free Ports for Refugees

The war is roaring to its climax, and it is time for the law to stop being so damned stately, to recognize that this is an emergency, and to get up out of its chair and get busy.

The way to do it is to set up a system of "free ports" for refugees. If Turkey, or Spain, or Eire, wish to acquire some beautiful merit in our eyes for peace conference purposes, we ought to suggest that they join us in establishing free ports for refugees.

These (as has been explained previously in this column) would be reservations, carefully fenced and guarded, which refugees could enter at will without formality of any kind. No rights of any kind would be acquired by anyone who entered such a reserved area. By an easy legal fiction, entrance into a free port would not constitute legal entrance into the country, and stay in a free port would not constitute legal residence in the country. It would just be a place where refugees could be stored for later reshipment; they would not be considered ever to have been in the United States at all.

The Right to Touch the Earth

We do it for goods; we have long had a "free port" in the New York City area, an actual physical space of land and buildings on Staten Island, into which foreign commodities can be brought without payment of customs duties, and stored for later reshipment abroad. We do it for Nazis, too; for we bring prisoners of war into the country, without bothering about their quota numbers.

So the question before the house is whether the law, which recognizes that sometimes you need a place in which to park a case of corsets or a prisoner of war, will concede that refugees, similarly, are not equipped for floating in the air, but need to touch the earth, sometimes, somewhere.

Once we had set up a "free port" for refugees, in any old Army camp, we would ask the neutrals to do the same, and thereby accumulate some beautiful merit, which they badly need. We have thrown an awful lot of law at the refugees; can't we help them, now, with an easy legal fiction? They don't want any rights, they just want a place to sit down; and surely the law can be ingenious enough to give them the one without the other.

COMPLAINT FOR DIVORCE

State of Indiana, Marion County:
In the Circuit Court of Marion County in the State of Indiana.
No. 59914.

Charles B. Lemerand vs. Nina Joyce Lemerand.

Be it known, that on the 21st day of April, 1944, the above named plaintiff, by his attorney, filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Marion County, in the State of Indiana, his complaint against the above named defendant Nina Joyce Lemerand and the said plaintiff having also filed in said Clerk's office the affidavit of a competent person, showing that the residence of the defendant, upon diligent inquiry, is unknown, and the defendant Nina Joyce Lemerand is not a resident of the State of Indiana, and that said cause of action is for divorce and that the defendant Nina Joyce Lemerand is a necessary party thereto and whereas said plaintiff having by endorsement on said complaint required said defendant to appear in said Court, and answer or demur thereto on the 19th day of June, 1944.

Now, therefore, by order of said Court, said defendant last above named is hereby notified of the filing and pendency of said complaint against her and that unless she appear and answer or demur thereto at the calling of said cause on the 19th day of June, 1944, the same being the 13th judicial day of a term of said Court, to be begun and held at the Courthouse in the City of Indianapolis, on the first Monday in June, 1944, said complaint and the matters and things therein contained and alleged, will be heard and determined in her absence.

THE COMPANIONS

A Story From the Rabbis

In the city of Troyes, France, there lived the great and beloved Rabbi Rashi.

One night as he was meditating about Heaven, he fell into a deep sleep. He dreamed that an angel appeared and spoke to him:

"Rashi, your life has been pure and good, unshadowed by greed or pride and therefore you shall be rewarded by taking part in the eternal happiness of Paradise.

Moreover you shall have for a companion in Paradise, Don Abraham Gerson, the Just, of Barcelona."

The Rabbi awoke with a start.
"Don Abraham Gerson," he said to himself. "Strange I have never heard of that Rabbi. Perhaps it is because he lives so far away."

A great curiosity filled Rashi and he determined to make a journey to Barcelona to see him.
He told no one of his journey,
but went alone.

When he reached Barcelona he asked at once for Abraham Gerson, the Just, whose fame had become known to him in France.
To his amazement he found that the man was unknown to anyone.
Perhaps he was a poor scholar.
Rashi asked again.

Finally someone remembered that there was a man known as Don Abraham Gerson in the city.

"But Rabbi," he added, "he is not known as a scholar. He is a very rich merchant and banker, high in favor with the nobles of the Christian court. He is extravagant and lives in the greatest luxury. He is surely not the man you mean."

"I shall see him in any event," said Rashi. "Perhaps he has the capacity to be a scholar or saint if someone awakens him to such things."

In spite of his being forewarned, Rashi was amazed at the beauty and richness of Don Gerson's mansion. It was a graceful house of white with curving staircases, crystal fountains, rich Oriental rugs and beautiful paintings.

Rashi announced himself as a poor, wandering student, and he was further surprised to find himself immediately ushered into the presence of the owner of all this splendor.

Don Gerson greeted him warmly and said:

"My friend, this shall be your home as long as you remain in Barcelona."

Then he continued: "And now will you excuse me for a time."
I am to be married tomorrow and I wish to share my happiness with my friends, especially those who are less fortunate."

And he turned to a group of poorly dressed men and women.

Rashi watched as Don Gerson went from one to the other listening to their problems, giving everything that was asked. He remembered each petitioner and asked about the family.

One old man with a sad face asked for a small loan. Don Abraham handed him a bag of gold pieces and he said, "Your son, Vital, has a great talent for medicine, I have learned. I wish him to study under my friend Isaac Ben Levi, the physician. This gold is to provide for him and you until he is able to earn for you.
You will be the father of a great doctor."

Rashi looked at the face of the old man which was suddenly lighted with joy and he thought—"Don Abraham knows how to do good.
He gives with his heart."

The great hall was almost empty by this time and just as Don Abraham was about to turn back to his guest, a hollow-eyed woman, dressed in black, stepped out from the shadows and fell at Don

LETTER CONTEST

Dear Boys and Girls:

How are your entries for the Junior Post Letter Contest coming along?

Here are the rules:

Write a letter, telling what you alone or your school or Sunday school is doing to help the war effort. Are you having much success in collecting paper and scrap?
Do you have any good ideas for selling bonds or stamps?
Handwriting or stationery doesn't count.

The more interesting letters will be printed in each issue and a prize will be given for the best letter of all.

The contest is on. Get your letters now and win a prize.

Abraham's feet.

"Senor, my trouble is so great,"
she cried.

Don Abraham raised the woman to her feet and said kindly, "If God has put it in my power to help you, I shall surely do so."

"Senor, you shall judge. I am a poor widow and I have a beloved son who has been my support and that of my three smaller children.
And now he is dying." Her voice broke.

"Please do not weep so. I shall send the best physicians at once.
They will make him well—you shall see."

"But his illness is not one that medicine can cure. He is dying for love. He was to marry a beautiful maiden, lovely and good.
But her parents have broken off the match and have betrothed her against her will to a rich merchant. The merchant, Don Abraham, is you—you yourself!"

Rashi saw Don Abraham grow
white. He said:

"What is your son's name?"

"Ira Ben Manuel," she replied.

"Tomorrow," Abraham Gerson said calmly to the mother, "I shall send for your son to come here and shall talk to him. I shall find some means to help him. Be at rest, good mother."

The rich man seemed to forget

INTER-ALLIED RELATIONS

Plans are taking shape for the sending of an American Jewish delegation to the Soviet Union, under the auspices of the American Committee of Jewish Writers, Artists and Scientists. . . . The delegation, we're told, will include a prominent Zionist leader. . . . The first American entertainer to put on a show for Marshal Tito's Yugoslavian guerrilla troops was John Garfield, who has just returned from his jaunt overseas. . . . May 5th is the publication date for "My Lives in Russia," by Markusha Fisher, wife of Louis Fischer. . . . She picked that date because both her sons (no, they aren't twins) will celebrate their birthdays then. . . . Hugo Weisgal, son of Baltimore's cantor Abba Weisgal, is helping cement American-British relations. . . . Stationed in England with the American Army, he has on several occasions conducted the London Symphony Orchestra in Albert Hall, and is making a great hit over there. . . . In fact, Dr. Chaim Weizmann, after attending one of his concerts, got in touch with him to congratulate him and to invite him to conduct the Palestine Symphony Orchestra in some concerts after the war is over.

OVER HERE

A correspondent reports that at the Shriner's convention at Kansas City last month there was a big parade, with decorated cars and all—and one of the cars featured a banner proclaiming: "Onward, Christian soldiers! Jews make uniforms." . . . Boston's Police Commissioner Thomas F. Sullivan, who last week admitted that the present anti-Semitic campaign in Boston is "an organized attack," is trying to withdraw his statement. . . . What pressure is changing his mind for him, we wonder?

PALESTINE NOTES

Washington political salons are these days entertaining Col. Vincent Sheean, author of "Personal History," etc., now here on leave from Italy. . . . Sheean, who a few years ago spoke of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem as a fine and wise humanitarian, still is very pro-Arab. . . . He does his best, we hear, to convert pro-Zionist Senators and Congressmen to the anti-Zionist viewpoint. . . . The Mufti himself, you'll be glad to hear, has been forced by Allied bombers to move from Berlin to Saxony. . . . And he has just issued an appeal to the Moslem world to hold prayer meetings for seven days to ask for the success of Adolf Hitler's forces. Have you seen the fascinating little booklet put out by the Chaim Weizmann Research Foundation in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Daniel Sieff Research Institute at Rehovoth, Palestine? . . . Don't miss it if you want to be up-to-date on the important discoveries Jewish scientists have been making there, with particular emphasis on vital war materials of which the Allies had been suffering a shortage.

FOR LIBERTY

There's a new Liberty Ship named the Harry L. Glucksman, after the late executive director of the Jewish Welfare Board, who died six years ago. . . . The vessel, built at Savannah, Ga., was launched the other day, with Mrs. Glucksman doing the honors. . . . Another Liberty Ship, to go down the ways later in the spring, will be named after the late Michael Edelstein, the Congressman who died of a heart attack after delivering a fiery defense of the Jews in reply to a defamatory oration by Representative Rankin. . . . Sergeant Barney Ross, who has just received his medical discharge from the Marines, is planning to raise funds for a parish church for Father Frederick Gehring, the heroic chaplain of the Guadalcanal campaign. . . . If and when Barney's life story is filmed, by the way, the role of the prize-ring and Marine fighter will probably go to John Garfield.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Eddie Cantor is going to be on the receiving end of some entertainment for a change early next month, when he'll be given a dinner at which he'll be honored for having raised about $100,000,000 for charity in 35 years as an entertainer.

the old woman and went on ordering the wedding preparations.

The time of the wedding was at hand.

A great crowd of guests were assembled, Jews and Gentiles, for in his quiet way, Don Abraham had been a good friend to all.

The bride stood under the wedding canopy and Rashi could see that although she was very beautiful her face under her veil was white and sad.

The marriage contract was read and when it was finished, Don Abraham said:

"There is one mistake here. I am not the bridegroom, but just the arranger of the match. The name of the bridegroom is Ira Ben Manuel."

And Gerson drew forward a young man. He placed the youth in the bridegroom's place under the canopy. The bride and groom

INTERGOVERNMENTAL COMMITTEE EMBARRASSED BY W. R. B.

By MURIEL LEVIN

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON—The conferences here between John W. Pehle of the War Refugee Board and Sir Herbert Emerson, director of the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees, may result in the speeding up of rescue work in Europe. But authoritative circles here are inclined to characterize Sir Herbert's visit as an attempt by a stagnant international organization to "horn in on the glory" of a group that is really accomplishing something. The hope here is that the desire to share the spotlight will bring in its wake some real activity by the Committee.

saw no one but each other. Their eyes were filled with happiness.

The wedding proceeded. Don Abraham presented the young couple with a rich house and land. Of all the guests at the celebration, the gayest was Don Abraham Gerson.

Only after the last guest had departed did he sink down into a chair and bury his head in his arms.

The great Rabbi put his hand on the grieving man's shoulder.

"Now it is clear to me why the angels call you Don Abraham Gerson, the Just. You are worthy of all praise. I am Rashi and I am proud to know you."

"Rashi, the great and blessed Rabbi Rashi. Then you understand. I need not be ashamed to have you see my tears."

"Weep, my friend and be comfortable. But know that in Paradise you and I are to be everlasting companions."

And Don Gerson smiled and clasped the Rabbi's hand and into his face came a look of peace.

Although it has only been in existence since the end of January, the President's War Refugee Board has conducted a more vigorous rescue program than the Intergovernmental Committee during the six year period of its sluggish life.

Ironically enough, while the House Foreign Affairs Committee was discussing the advisability of establishing such an American agency, one of the members questioned Assistant Secretary of State Breckinridge Long, who was testifying in closed hearings on the State Department's negative attitude toward the proposal. "From the very nature of things, do you not think that the new commission would probably get in contact with the Intergovernmental Committee and want to cooperate with them and advise with them, and perhaps it would end in embarrassment and annoyance in connection with the actions of the Intergovernmental Committee?" the congressman demanded.

Set Up 6 Years Ago.

Perhaps the War Refugee Board has served as a source of embarrassment for the Intergovernmental Committee.

The Committee, to which 32 nations belonged, was set up six years ago after the Evian Conference. It did some good work before the outbreak of the war but gradually petered out. After the Anglo-American refugee conference in Bermuda a year ago, the Committee was presumably reorganized and revitalized. When Patrick Malin, an American with sound relief experience, was made vice-director early last summer, it was thought that something might be accomplished. President Roosevelt set up the War Refugee Board at "five minutes to twelve" when it was more than obvious that not enough was being done to stop the

SOVIET HERO GETS U.S. AWARD

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

MOSCOW — Captain Israel Fisanovitch, noted Jewish submarine commander of the Red Fleet, who destroyed many German raiders which were attempting to intercept American and British convoys to Russia, has received an American decoration, it was disclosed here this week when a photograph of a U. S. general awarding him the decoration was placed on exhibition at the Jewish Anti-Fascist Committee.

annihilation in Europe.

Asked whether he had worked with the Intergovernmental Committee in his successful efforts to siphon people through Turkey from the Balkans, Ira A. Hirschmann, the Board's representative in Ankara who recently returned to report to headquarters, said, "Well, no. You see, the committee doesn't have a representative in Turkey."

Apparently the American board did not "embarrass" the Intergovernmental Committee by contacting it and advising it.

Two-Thirds Didn't Survive

But there were 150,000 Jews herded into "horrible, plague-ridden" concentration camps in Transnistria months and months ago. By exerting pressure on the Rumania Government, the American board directly affected removal to the interior where they were at least free to shift for themselves under vastly improved conditions, and arrangements were made to transfer thousands to Palestine and other havens. The board, however, could act only for the survivors—and more than 100,000 died in Transnistria while the Intergovernmental Committee was "operating."

Perhaps the War Refugee Board embarrassed the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees in this instance. Perhaps it embarrassed them enough to promote some action by the Committee. Sir Herbert's visit here would seem to indicate as much.

FIVE CHILDREN WERE STOPPED AND ASKED, "ARE YOU JEWISH?"

By SOPHIA SMOLIAR

PM Service
Spring came to the East Bronx and little boys went out to play in the street or watch fishing boats dock near the Bronx River bridge.

Some of the children found playmates but five boys were stopped and asked:

"Are you Jewish?"

Those who said yes were threatened, struck, hit with stones and coal cinders, and one had his hat ripped by pocket knives.

Stanley Zweben, 9, of 932 Hoe avenue, lied and said no. He was warned to attend church and told that no Jewish boy may wear an army cap.

Stanley was walking along Hoe avenue, the block where he lives, at 12:15 p. m. on April 12, when the two boys approached, pushed him onto some cellar steps and asked if he was Jewish. Stanley is a slender, little boy who wears large, horn-rimmed glasses.

He said he was afraid because they were "bigger'n me, may be 12 years old."

Threatened with Knife

"So I told 'em I was not Jewish," Stanley said. "They said it wuz a good thing because no Jewish boy can wear an army cap like mine is. Then the first boy got a knife from his friend 'n put it against my jacket. Then he said next time, he'd get me 'n cut me up if I didn't go to church."

Stanley got away from the two boys after he told them his name and address. He ran home "behind a man because I was afraid 'n I told 'em my right name but my wrong address." His parents were afraid to let Stanley go to Hebrew School alone in the middle of the afternoon.

On Thursday, at noon, a call was made to the Simpson Street Police Station, 41st Precinct, to report this attack. The police were asked to come to Stanley's home at 4:30 when both the boy and his mother would be home.

At 4:30, no one came. The boy's sister called the police at 4:45. A few minutes later, the bell rang and a policeman explained that he had been there earlier but thought it was Apt. 2h, there is no Apt. 2h. The family's name which had been given to the police, is listed both in the hall and at the door of Apt. 2a.

The policeman listened while Mrs. Zweben and Stanley told the story. Then he asked for the attacker's name. Stanley said he didn't know it.

"Oh, well," said the policeman.

"But I know where he lives 'n I can recognize him," Stanley said.

The policeman asked Stanley to go downstairs and find the boy. Stanley went with the police car trailing him. When they reached the building where Stanley believed the boy lived, the car pulled alongside.

"Hell, kid, do you see him?" the policeman asked.

Stanley didn't see the boy but thought he recognized one of the boy's friends. After a moment, Stanley came back and told the policeman that he thought the boy's name was—. The policeman asked Stanley if he was sure, but Stanley wasn't. One of the children shouted that he knew three boys with the same first name.

"Oh, well," said the policeman.

"He's always around here at 5:30 when I go to Hebrew school," Stanley said.

The policeman looked at his watch and then told Stanley:

"Look, kid, find out who the boy is and when you see him, call the precinct. We'll send over right away and get him. OK?"

Others Are Attacked

Tuesday at about 5 p. m., four other boys were attacked. Gerald (Skinny) Goldstein, 10, 1057 Hoe avenue, and Neil —, 12, of Faile street (for business reasons, his father asked that Neil's full name be withheld), were watching fishing boats at the Westchester avenue Bronx River bridge.

They were approached by three boys—one about 14, another about 12, and a little boy about 6 or 7. The oldest boy asked if they were Jewish. They said yes. He put a wooden chip on Skinny's shoulder, told the little boy to knock it off and "dared" Skinny to hit him back. They said they'd beat Spinn up because the little boy "doesn't want a Jew to touch him." Not only did the little boy knock off the chip but he hit Skinny in the eye with a ringed finger.

The boys removed Neil's hat, began throwing coal, cinders and stones at Neil and Skinny and ripped Neil's hat with a knife. At this point, Sheldon Pustil, 12, and Herbert Lipman, 11, of 941 Faile street, approached, and the older boys left temporarily.

A few minutes later they came back and the four boys ran to a policeman, told him what had happened, and pointed out their pursuers, who, seeing the policeman, stopped and began turning back.

"That's not my beat," the policeman told them. "Next time, if someone asks if you're Jewish, hit him first and then answer."

Monday night, the fathers and mothers went to the 441st Precinct, Simpson Street Police Station.

A detective who did not identify himself, told the parents the case was "under investigation" and asked "what you're gettin' excited about." Told there was a newspaper reporter present, he hurried parents and children into another room and began questioning them.

Then he discovered the attack had started "across the Bronx River bridge" in the 43rd Precinct, although the children had been chased back to his precinct. He ordered the parents and children to go to the Westchester Square Police Station and telephoned to tell a Detective Wolf they were coming.

Some of the parents were discouraged. It was after 10 p. m., and they wanted their children home in bed. Only two boys and three relatives went to Westchester Square.

Courses of Action

Detective Frank Wolf was expecting them. He separated the boys, questioned them individually, straightened out the incident in his own mind. Then he explained what had actually happened to the parents and advised them that there were two courses open:

To prosecute in Children's Court after the culprits were found, or

Report the culprits to Children's Aid Bureau for investigation.

The parents insisted that under no circumstances did they want to leave "a mark" against the names of the children. They begged Wolf to "just scare them a little."

"We don't want to ruin the kids' lives," one father said. "We just want these conditions stopped so that our kids can play in the streets unmolested."

Wolf told them he had to follow through the case because he heard there had been a reporter with them at the 41st precinct. He asked "who got her." Someone said she "was just there." The fathers renewed their request that Wolf "just scare the kids."

Detective's Offers

Wolf thought a moment and then offered to investigate, find the boys through information supplied by the children, have their principal talk to them. He also offered to approach the parents of the boys and explain that another such incident would mean an arrest.

Wolf made up an agreement to that effect and had both parents sign it. The parents did and assured him that "there won't be any repercussions even if it gets in the papers." They praised Wolf for his co-operation and left.

"If the kids had been seriously hurt," one father said, "I'd say get the boys who did it and put them in jail. That would teach the rest of them. But this way, we warn them. They know if they do it again, they'll land in jail. Maybe they won't. I hope so, anyway."

and threatened the little Jewish lads.

Neil —, one of the boys attacked, told us that the detectives found the boy who had seen the incident and who knew the names of the attackers. They asked for the names, but were told that the boy "wasn't sure of them."

"So the detectives told the boy to get his big brother who knows their names," Neil said. "He told him to get me and the other three boys and go look for them. When we find out their names, we should ride all the way to Westchester Square and tell the cops. But we ain't going to."

"Those boys got knives on them. We don't want to get hurt. We thought the detectives are supposed to do the finding out, not us."

Speaks On

Matter of Business

MR. LOUIS BLUMENSTOCK who has been in the department store line and in advertising calls on me on an important matter of business. It's something we all speak of privately and wish we could do something about. I think it is time to drag it out in the full light to be looked at by the people who should be most concerned.

To be sure, they are a minority and could be ignored if it weren't one of the vices of the human race to smear an entire group of people with the sins of its minority.

That being so, neither Mr. Blumenstock nor I care to have the good name of the Jewish people embarrassed by some few business men whose business ways should reflect only upon their own characters. But, the world being what it is, their sharp practices are made to carry discredit to the Jewish people.

I know the answer some of us are quick to give. Aren't there some awful crooks among business men who are not Jews? Isn't American business history black with the record of exploitation and outright thievery? Have even the inspirations of patriotism restrained all business men from getting all they can out of this war? Why, then, pick especially on some shady Jewish business men?

Well, since these Jews are tossed into our hands it is for us to take them and give them the spanking they richly deserve. Since they discredit us—even though it is no just dispensation for us to have to carry them—it is for us to try to straighten them out.

If they were not Jewish their business would be on their own heads alone. In the period when it was the practice to steal railroads, the big thief might be an Episcopalian, a Baptist, a Presbyterian or a Holy Roller but his thievery was not regarded as a reflection on his faith or his race. In fact, his being such a big thief made him a glamorous figure, respected in the best circles.

But a shady Jew is never that happily situated; nor can we be complacent on account of him. Yes, we've got to take him and do with him.

Mr. Blumenstock is thinking of the post-war time and the economic stresses that will ensue. The sorrows and disillusionments of that period may cause people to strike at scapegoats, in accordance with the ancient way of the human race. We can't allow people like Zilch to accerbate their resentments by mean business practices.

Who is this Zilch? He is in the retail trade. His store is one of the many Jewish establishments in any American community in which, for good or ill, the retail trade is in Jewish hands.

All around Zilch's place are honorable Jewish merchants. Big ones and little ones. There are those among them who have kept high the reputation for probity of their peddler-grandfathers who established their businesses.

Their grandfathers earned good names from the beginning of their American careers. They were frequently the first Jews in the communities in which they peddled and their integrity made the Jewish name good among their neighbors. Their sons have been meticulous to keep the good names they earned in sacred honor.

"They are a credit to their country," says Mr. Blumenstock. "They make a definite contribution to the national welfare. They know the need of efficient, dependable and economical distribution. If all retailers maintained the same attitude of public service the problem of distribution would cease to exist."

But there is this Zilch and his ilk. Mr. Blumenstock calls them the zeros who bring down the otherwise high average among Jewish retailers. He recites the catalog of their sinning. . . . Arrogant disregard for moral business principles. . . . High prices for shoddy stuff. . . . High pressure to make sales to the gullible. . . . Gyp items. . . . The squeeze play which finally lands the customer in the collection court to make him pay for goods that shouldn't have been sold him in the first place. . . . The curse that this brings upon Jews.

It isn't "that damned Zilch" who is cursed; it is "those damned Jews."

People like the Zilches cast an ominous shadow upon the status of Jews in the post-war world. What can they contribute save evil complications to the problem of distribution in the happy solution of which lies a better economic order?

What but ill can they provide toward the goal of brotherhood in which all peoples of whatever kind shall labor together without suspicion of their neighbors.

What but pain can they, even though they are only a minority, bring upon the Jewish people in a post-war world whose blind agony will search for scapegoats?

"The high-minded patriotic Jews of this land are facing a public relations job which must be done for the welfare of the country and the future of the Jews," Mr. Blumenstock says. "To maintain our form of government we must distribute the things our people are able to produce. Our people expect to enjoy the fruits of their labor. Practices that create waste in this land of plenty are fraught with danger."

Nearly all of us feel as does Mr. Blumenstock about this. We discuss it in our private convocations and some of us think that perhaps an appeal should be made to the consciences of the Zilches in the name of the Jewish people. The conscience always has been a moral power in Jewish life. If the consciences of other men have had to be right for their own sakes, the conscience of a Jew has had to be right also for the sake of his people. This double responsibility has made the consciences of Jews acutely sensitive.

Let this, therefore, be an address to the consciences of the Zilches wherever they may be. It is the voice of the multitude of Jews speaking—the great majority who deal by honor.

I thank Mr. Blumenstock for the opportunity to bring this matter up publicly.

An institute for physical education, named after the late Maj. Gen. Orde C. Wingate, who was killed in a plane crash in Burma, will be established by the Jewish National Council.

"She sent me to the class where I thought the boy was," Stanley said. "So I found the boy and told his teacher, Miss Schreiber of 5-A-2. He was just who I said he was. When I told Miss Schreiber, she brought him down after school."

"The two teachers questioned first me 'n then they questioned him. He said it was a joke 'n first, they believed him. But I asked him why did he ask me if I was a Jew. So then he said he didn't know. So they believed me."

"Then Miss Schreiber, she hollered at him and told him never to do it again. Before we went away, she told him not to go where I stay and she told me not to stay where he is."
